

Amendment to the Calendar Year 2023 Fee Guidance for the Federal Independent Dispute Resolution Process Under the No Surprises Act: Change in Administrative Fee

---

January 11, 2023

Summary of Major Updates:

This guidance amends the previous “Calendar Year 2023 Fee Guidance for the Federal Independent Dispute Resolution Process under the No Surprises Act” released on October 31, 2022 (prior 2023 guidance). The Departments of Health and Human Services (HHS), Labor, and the Treasury (collectively, the Departments) are amending the prior 2023 guidance to increase the administrative fee for the Federal independent dispute resolution (IDR) process from $50 to $350 per party for disputes initiated during the calendar year beginning January 1, 2023, due to supplemental data analysis and increasing expenditures in carrying out the Federal IDR process since the development of the prior 2023 guidance. These changes are described further in Section II of the link below. No changes have been made to the 2023 certified IDR entity fee ranges for single or batched determinations.

<https://www.cms.gov/cciio/resources/regulations-and-guidance/downloads/amended-cy2023-fee-guidance-federal-independent-dispute-resolution-process-nsa.pdf>